Bridging the Gap: The Role of The National CLAS Standards in Promoting Equity

Virtual Training: Monday, August 15, 2022

2:00pm-4:00pm

Prevention CEUs and CHES hours will be provided by Prevention First

CLAS: Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Services

Cultural proficiency is critical in promoting behavioral health equity. In order to effectively address substance use and mental health concerns in communities, attention to cultural factors and strategies to enhance cultural responsiveness of programming and service delivery must be considered.

This training will help participants:

- 1) Incorporate cultural considerations in the context of program development and service delivery,
- 2) Apply cultural competency concepts to program development and service delivery,
- 3) Incorporate the Nation CLAS Standards in agency, organization and/or program functions.
